

Central Region

- ◆ Marked by an outstanding workforce, a strong concentration of colleges and universities, lower cost R&D, manufacturing and incubator space, and regional commitment to the growth of the biotechnology industry
- ◆ Distinguished life science companies and institutions including: Bristol-Myers Squibb, Abbott, Cytec, AstraZeneca, WPI, UMass Medical School, and others

Western Region

- ◆ Offers the lowest business and development costs in the state
Berkshire County is known as America's Premier Cultural Resort, spawning a creative economy to join its traditional industries
- ◆ Distinguished life science companies and institutions including Bay State Medical Center, Nuclea Biomarkers, MicroTest, Tyco Healthcare, UMass Amherst, Williams College, Amherst College, and others
- ◆ UMass and Baystate Medical Center have formed a free-standing Biomedical Research Institute

Northeast Region

- ◆ Region includes the Merrimack Valley-I-495, north-south Route 3, and I-93 technology corridors
Represents one of the most concentrated precision instrumentation clusters in the world
- ◆ The region includes outstanding universities such as UMass-Lowell and Merrimack College, as well as a high quality of life and key industry leaders such as Wyeth, Straumann, Millipore, and others

Greater Boston

- ◆ One of the most dynamic industry clusters in the world comprised of biopharma and medical device manufacturing; influential area universities and hospitals; and private research institutions which create an unsurpassed center for R&D
- ◆ Distinguished life science companies and institutions including: Genzyme, Merck, Novartis, Boston University, MIT, MGH, Harvard, and others

Metrowest Region

- ◆ Over 30 communities west of Boston and east of Worcester along the I-495 corridor, stretching from Sudbury in the north to Foxborough in the south; the area includes one of the largest towns in the United States, Framingham, which is home to many industrial and office parks
- ◆ Close proximity to both Boston and Worcester; most communities within 20 miles of Cambridge; access to major influential universities and hospitals including: MIT, Harvard, and UMass Medical Center
- ◆ Major life science manufacturing facilities such as Genzyme, AstraZeneca, and Boston Scientific

Southeast Region

- ◆ Tradition of precision manufacturing in the region
- ◆ High concentration of medical device manufacturing
- ◆ Distinguished life science companies and institutions including: Serono, AVANT Immunotherapeutics, Bayer, Stonehill College, Wheaton College, Dean College, and Brown University in nearby Providence
- ◆ Served by I-495, I-95, and I-195 with excellent rail service to Boston, New York, and Providence
